Web Design Terms & Conditions

All ecommerce website design samples shown in this brochure are intellectual property rights of the respective web designers. This applies, without limitation, to any underlying data, platforms, algorithms, technology, design, UI, any information, services, texts, files, charts, graphs, photos, sounds, videos, fonts, graphics, organization, structure, section assembly and arrangement thereof (including without limitation “look and feel”), features, and any modifications, enhancements and derivatives thereof and all other Intellectual Property Rights related thereto.

For the purpose of these Terms, “Intellectual Property Rights” means worldwide, whether registered or not (a) rights associated with works of authorship, designs, mask works and photography including copyrights; (b) trademarks, service marks, domain names, logos, trade names, trade dress, the right to publicity and goodwill rights; (c) patents, patent applications and industrial designs; (d) trade secrets; (e) rights analogous to those set forth herein and any other proprietary rights relating to intangible property; (f) divisions, continuations, renewals, reissues and extensions of the foregoing (as applicable) now existing or hereafter filed, issued, or acquired.

SecureAX owns licence to the Intellectual Property Rights. Our licence gives us access to use the plugins and designs for our customers, as long as these customers are hosted within our servers and network.

Our customers acknowledge that they will lose access to this licence once they cancel or terminate their service subscription with SecureAX. Any intellectual property rights should be disabled and removed immediately upon service cancellation with SecureAX.
